Dear Colleague:

The musicians in Glen Road are among an elite group of professional performers who are equally at home in the classroom or the concert hall. The group proved its versatility March 1st and 2nd, playing for appreciative audiences ranging from Douglas County elementary school students to senior citizens, concluding with a full-length concert for the public on Saturday night.

The educational component made the package especially attractive to us, as we strive to develop new audiences for the arts. The students loved the music, and the music teachers appreciated that the musicians took time to explain the physics of how the music is produced, which reinforced their curriculum.

Throughout this booking, the members of Glen Road demonstrated a high degree of professionalism, an ability to adapt to different situations and audiences, and a willingness to go the extra mile to respond to our requests. They were easy to work with, well-prepared, and they possess a great wealth of knowledge about traditional Irish music, a subject they obviously love.

Glen Road's public concert left our audience feeling enriched and enlivened. One woman, whose companion had recently been diagnosed with a life-threatening illness, confided that this concert was exactly what her friend needed to lift his spirits.

While in Douglasville, the trio stayed at the home of a CAC Board member and her husband who agreed, "It was a delight to host them and get to know each performer personally." The Cultural Arts Council was pleased to present such a high quality, entertaining performance for our community. We hope to invite Glen Road back next year, and can thoroughly recommend them to you.

Sincerely,

Helen Meade, Executive Director
