PLOT SYNOPSIS

In this all-new musical version of the classic tale, poor ditsy Snow White stumbles from adventure to adventure, and just keeps getting more and more confused. The beautiful but evil Queen Lavinia, already on edge from listening to Snow White's constant happy singing, has a tantrum when her saucy, wise-cracking mirror decides that Snow's beauty has surpassed her own. When the mirror gives her the razzberry, she's had enough - and she sends Snow into the forest to meet her fate, which turns out to be resident housekeeper for a dwarf family that is never all home at the same time. Incensed at her failure to regain her status as reigning beauty queen, Queen Lavinia brews up a magic spell potion that will get Snow White out of her hair forever. Nothing is going right that day, however, and as luck would have it, in the nick of time a passing Prince is enchanted by the entranced Snow White. He does what all good princes must do, and the happy ever after ending restores order to the far-off kingdom of wacky characters.
